📣 Speak Up for Me: Reading

Transitions · Unit 1 · Level 3 (closer to the class work) · goes with Transitions Level 2 slides: Speak Up for Me (role-play)

Name: _____

⏱️ 5-minute review

- Strength, goal or support: what's the difference?
- Say your intro line: “It helps me when ___.”
- Is “show me first” a strength, goal or support?

Self-Advocacy

Self-advocacy means speaking up for what I need. I use it at school, at work and in the community, and I stay calm and polite.

Speak up in three steps: 1) get the person's attention politely, 2) say what you need clearly, 3) say thank you.

A strong ask is polite, clear and calm. “Can I have more time, please?” is better than “Give me more time!” because it is respectful and the person knows what you need.

Practice helps. Role-play a scene, like asking a teacher to slow down or asking a coworker to show you a task again.

Check your reading

1. What is self-advocacy?

2. Why is “Can I have more time, please?” a strong ask?