News from Room 113

SEL (Social-Emotional Learning)
Self-Management: My Calm-Down Toolkit
[start date] to [end date]
Ferndale High School
SAMPLE - replace the [brackets]

Learned | ORI Learning | Comic Strip | Try at Home | Dates | Question

What We Learned

Self-management means helping your body and feelings get calm. Students are building a Calm-Down Toolkit. It is a folder of tools for when a feeling gets big. We practiced noticing body clues and choosing a tool, like slow breathing, a short break, or a calm phrase.

ORI Learning

ORI Learning gives us online lessons about feelings and skills. Each lesson has four parts:
Do Now: a quick warm-up question
Vocabulary: key words for the lesson
Partner Power!: talk with a classmate
Journal: write or draw about the lesson

Key Words

Trigger: something that starts a big feeling
Body clue: a sign in your body about a feeling
Calm: relaxed and steady
Tool: something that helps you calm down
Reset: get back to calm

Project Spotlight: Reset Comic Strip

Students are making a 4-panel comic strip about calming down. They draw each panel and write a short caption. At the end of the unit, they share their comic with the class.

1 The Trigger	2 The Body Clue	3 The Toolkit Pause	4 The Reset

Try It at Home

Calm-Down Strategy Card

Try slow breathing together.
1. Sit down.
2. Breathe in slowly.
3. Breathe out slowly.
4. Do it 3 times.

Practice when you are calm, not when you are upset. If your student already has a calm-down plan, use that one.

Calm Corner Tip

You might make a calm spot at home.
Pick a quiet place. Add a soft item.
Add headphones if sound is hard.
Show your student the spot when everyone is calm.

Dates and Reminders

[date]: [item]
About Oct 28-29: Calm-Down Toolkit unit ends
[date]: Next unit starts
[date]: Next newsletter

Quick Question

Scale: 1 Very calm, 2 Okay, 3 A little upset, 4 Upset, 5 Very big feeling
Ask your student: Point to a number, 1 to 5.
How big is your feeling today?
Tell us: What helps your student calm down at home?

Contact

Grant Driver, Room 113, Ferndale High School | [school email] | [school phone] |
Best time to reach me: [times]

Translate This Page

[QR code]

[approved translation link]
Need this page in another language? Scan the code or ask us.